

Absolute Classics

Absolute Classics, in Dumfries and Galloway, brings the best in classical music to the area. Based in rural Scotland, where little provision for high quality classical music is provided, they aim to bring some of the best performers to the region and give the local communities the opportunity to hear classical musicians of international acclaim.

They achieve this by:

- Providing tutoring and mentoring opportunities to young musicians.
- Attracting highly-acclaimed international musicians to lead concerts and festivals.
- Running an international masterclass residency.
- Delivering education and outreach programmes, including workshops within a school setting
